Linguistic islands

The new teaching organisation of the Primary School and Secondary School 1st grade enables you to spend some optional educational activities - including the study of languages - a time that does not necessarily have to be distributed according to a weekly schedule (p. Ex., two hours of English per week), but may be concentrated in a limited period - four or five days - being considered a full-fledged business school curriculum. It is known, then, that the study focused language, the mode of immersion is much more profitable to study spread out over time and interspersed with other materials. Therefore, residential language courses will be organised for pupils and students of the schools in the first cycle of education. These courses are fully included in the academic curriculum.

They will be also targeted to children and will take place in Italy, identifying the "linguistic islands' location that is inserted in the natural environment where you can only communicate in your chosen language, staying and studying the English language, with the guidance of teachers of mother tongue .
